Subject: Declarations of Taking Still Apply Today - Let's Count the Ways

How many of these declarations of takings from 233 years ago apply
Let us count the ways.

He has refused his assent to laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has forbidden his governors to pass laws of immediate and certain effect, unless suspended in their operation till his assent should be obtained; and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other laws for the accommodation of large towns, unless those people would relinquish the right of representation in the Legislature; a right inestimable to them and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their public records, for the sole purpose of evading his assent to their acts.

He has dissolved representative houses repeatedly, for opposing with a manly spirit his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused for a long time, after such dissolutions, to cause new elections to be held; whereby the legislative powers, incapable of annihilation, have remained without exercise; the state remaining in the meantime exposed to all the inconveniences of anarchy and confusion.

He has endeavored to prevent the population of these states; by obstructing the laws for naturalization of foreigners; by refusing to encourage their migration hither, and by raising the conditions of new lands.

He has obstructed the administration of justice, by refusing his assent to laws for establishing judiciary powers.

He has made judges dependent on his will alone, for the tenure and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people, and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us, in times of peace, standing armies without the consent of our Legislature.

He has affected to render the military independent of and superior to the civil power.

He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his assent to their acts.

For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us:

For protecting them, by mock trial, from punishment for any murders which they should commit on the inhabitants of these states:

For cutting off our trade with all parts of the world:

For imposing taxes on us without our consent:

For depriving us in many cases, of the benefits of trial by jury:

For transporting us beyond seas to be tried for pretended offenses:

For abolishing the free system of English laws in a neighboring province, establishing therein an arbitrary government, and enlarging its boundaries so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule in these colonies:

For taking away our charters, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering fundamentally the forms of our governments:

For suspending our own legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated government here, by declaring us out of his protection and waging war against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our coasts, burned our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is at this time transporting large armies of foreign mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation and tyranny, already begun with circumstances of cruelty and perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy of the head of a civilized nation.

He has constrained our fellow citizens taken captive on the high seas to bear arms against their country, to become the executioners of their friends and brethren, or to fall themselves by their hands.

He has excited domestic insurrections amongst us, and has endeavored to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian savages, whose known rule of warfare, is undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions.

In every stage of these oppressions we have petitioned for redress in the most humble terms: our repeated petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Exhausted British troops finally reached the safety of the Charlestown peninsula on the evening of April 19. During the night, longboats ferried British soldiers back to Boston. Meanwhile, patriot units from throughout New England formed an arc about the harbor city.

Over the next couple of days approximately 20,000 patriot soldiers joined an "army of observation."

The fledgling patriot army, with units from Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Hampshire, and Rhode Island, was initially poorly disciplined and loosely structured. Nevertheless, in June 1775, patriot forces fought courageously during the Battle of Bunker Hill.

To strengthen the patriot army, the Second Continental Congress appointed George Washington of Virginia commander of "all the continental forces" on June 15, 1775. Washington arrived in Cambridge on July 2 and assumed command of the troops the next day.

With his junior officers, Washington immediately set to work accumulating supplies, constructing barracks, cutting waste, raising funds, and imposing discipline. To a friend in New York he wrote, "In a little Time we shall work up these raw materials into good stuff."

The current police state in America is designed to protect the system NOT the natural born Americans.

This is why it is imperative to reinstate the militia. The current police state in America only protects the system NOT the natural born Americans.
